

This document spans three pages and exercises the chunker's cross-page paragraph continuity logic. The next page begins mid-sentence, continuing this paragraph without an intervening blank line.

The chunker should recognize this run as the same paragraph that began on page 1, joining the spans across the page boundary into one logical chunk.

And the final continuation here on page 3 closes the cross-page paragraph fixture.